CHAMBER OF COMMERCE REJECTS ANNEXATION BY HUGE VOTE

SAN FERNANDO NATIONAL AFFILIATES WITH PACIFIC SOUTHWEST GROUP BANKS

Joins Family of First National Bank, Los Angeles, First Securities and First National

BECOMES CO-PARTNER ON JANUARY SECOND

Local Control, Authority and Directors Provided for by Understanding Under the Merger

By an agreement entered into between all of the stockholders of the San Fernando National bank on the one hand and the First National bank of Los Angeles, Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings bank and the First Securities company on the other, an affiliation has been consummated by which the stockholders of the San Fernando National bank are to become co-partners in the First National bank of Los Angeles, Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings bank and the First Securities company. The merger will become effective January 2.

The arrangements were worked out between Fred W. Prince, president of the San Fernando National bank, and Charles F. Stern, executive vice-president of the Pacific-Southwest institutions. This transaction does not entail an outright purchase of stock but the stockholders of the San Fernando National bank through an exchange of shares in the Pacific-Southwest banks, become co-partners in the entire business of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings bank, and the First Securities company.

The affiliation of these institutions does not mean the absorption of the San Fernando National bank, for the outstanding and important feature of the whole transaction lies in the fact that by this means San Fernando retains its own individual institution plus the support of the total resources amounting to more than $200,000,000. Under the statement of condition on September 15 the total resources of the San Fernando National Bank were $88,443.88. On December 12 these resources had increased to more than $75,000.

Under the plan of the merger an understanding was reached as to continued local control over the institution and the continued authority of San Fernando officers and directors. The officers and directors of the San Fernando institution are as follows: Fred W. Prince, president; F. L. Shimmun, vice-president; Frank J. Henderson, cashier; W. L. Fletcher, assistant cashier. Directors: Fred W. Prince, F. L. Shimmun, Hardman Fowler, E. A. Curtis, and L. Q. Branson.

The importance of this merger to San Fernando itself lies in the fact that through this merger at most unlimited capital is placed at the disposal of San Fernando valley enterprises. This is typified by the movements in community credits throughout the Pacific-Southwest whereby Redlands receives during its orange shipment period the support of the entire Pacific-Southwest system from Fresno south, the money from the sale of Redlands oranges being used in time to finance the shipment of oranges from the Lindsay district and the early vegetables of the Imperial valley, and that money in turn is returned in time to take care of the raisins of the San Joaquin valley, the beans of Santa Barbara and Ventura counties, and in turn the walnuts of the south.

The San Fernando National bank is located at Porter avenue and Brand boulevard.

CITIZENS' BUILDING FOR SALE

Put on the Market Today
After About One Year's Existence

IS POPULAR CENTER
Rumored That Two of the Heaviest Stockholders Desire to Withdraw

The Citizens' Building Company is today putting on the market its building on Brand Boulevard known as the Chamber of Commerce building. No reason is assigned for this action.

Confirmation of the fact was obtained from Secretary Theobald this morning. He did not assign a reason for sale of the building.

The Citizens' building was erected about a year ago by a stock company, interested as members in housing the chamber of commerce.

It was promptly rented and has been a popular center.

While there has been no statement, it was rumored that two of the heaviest stockholders in the company desire to withdraw their interest.

INTERVENTION B Y U. S. BRINGS JOY ABROAD

LONDON, Dec. 16.—All Europe today hailed the possibility of American intervention as the only means of solving the tangled reparations problem.

The British press was especially enthusiastic over impending action by the United States.

The Evening News understands a financial conference at Washington has been proposed and welcomes the suggestion, pointing out such a conference "would be a welcome recognition of the fact that Europe's financial crisis is not a European but a world problem, deeply affecting American interests."

Typical of newspaper criticism everywhere is the editorial of the Manchester Guardian which declares:

"It is the biggest and best thing that has happened since the armistice."

Tremendous curiosity has been aroused here and on the continent as to the form American aid for Europe will take. It was stated here that even Ambassador Harvey was entirely ignorant as to what the White House intended to do.

The enthusiastic reception given announcement of the step proposed by President Harding by the British press was echoed somewhat less conspicuously across the channel. The French conservative press reports of determined American opposition to France's Ruhr occupation plans to offset the news that the United States may come to Europe's assistance financially.

In London it is felt that France can prevent intervention by adopting a recalcitrant attitude towards Germany. For that reason, the strong vote of confidence won by Premier Poincare in considered significant of danger to the whole scheme.

The British circles understand that much depends upon the outcome of the premiers' conference which is to be resumed at Paris next month. Bonar Law's hand at that meeting will be greatly strengthened by the American move, it is believed here, where the tendency is to describe the prospective intervention as indicative of a "united Anglo-American front with a view of obtaining relief in treatment of Germany."

The intervention of the United States is not expected suddenly.

LEARN A CAROL A DAY CAMPAIGN IS ON NOW

Each Day Glendale Daily Press Will Print One
Xmas Song

The "learn a carol a day" campaign of the committee in charge of the Glendale community celebration is doing much to create interest in this first big program being put on by Glendale Community Service, and in which it is desired that all the people of the community will join. Each day the Glendale Daily Press is publishing one of the Christmas carols and giving a short story of its origin. The carol for today is:

IT CAME UPON THE MIDNIGHT
CLEAR

It came upon the midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold:
"Peace on the earth, good-will to men,
From Heaven's all-gracious King."
The world in solemn stillness lay
To hear the angels sing.

Still thro' the cloven skies they come,
With peaceful wings unfurled,
And still their heavenly music floats
O'er all the weary world;

Above its sad and lowly plains
They bend on hovering wing,
And ever o'er its babel sounds
The blessed angels sing.

And ye, beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low,
Who toil along the climbing way
With painful steps and slow,
Look now! for glad and golden hours
Come swiftly on the wing:

O rest beside the weary road,
And hear the angels sing:
For lo, the days are hast'ning on,
Prophets bards foretold,
And the time of the ever-circling years
Comes round the world in solemn files,
When peace shall over all the earth
Its ancient splendors fling,
And the whole world give back the song
Which now the angels sing. Amen.

Year after year as the quiet clear nights of the Christmas season approach, the spirits of thousands who have a touch of poetry or imagination in them are stirred at the contemplation of the New Testament story of the birth of Jesus. What countless poems have been produced by writers, great and small. One of the finest expressions is by an American, Edmund H. Sears, a Unitarian minister and a poet, who lived in Massachusetts from 1810 to 1876. In December 1849 he published in the Reverend journal the poem beginning
"It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

He sent it to a brother clergyman who fitted it to an old hymn tune, to which it is still often sung at Wesleyan college.

The next year, however, an American, Richard S. Willis, who had been struck with the unusual beauty of the poem, wrote an original setting for it. This met with such favor that it is practically the only one now in general use.

It, moreover, has because of its Christmas spirit, appropriately been given the hymn-tune name
"Carol." It is singularly effective in rendering with the same music for all the stanzas the four varying moods—the first two depicting the angels hovering over the earth and singing their hymn of praise, the third bringing words of comfort to the weary, the fourth prophesying the happy days when all the world shall join in the angels' song.

SERVICE BUDGET TO BE DISCUSSED

The members of the executive committee of Glendale Community Service will hold their regular luncheon meeting Monday noon at the Broadway Inn. V. M. Hollier, president, urges that all be prompt as the matter of discussion of budget raising is to occupy most of the time.

XMAS SPIRIT AT DORAN SCHOOL

The Christmas spirit was abroad at the Doran street school when Friday noon the teachers were pleasantly surprised with a luncheon, at which time the mothers of children attending the school presented the teachers with some new pillows, curtains and so forth for the rest room.

Conferences between Ambassador Harvey and President Harding will take place at Washington and notes will be dispatched to European governments, according to the view of British official circles.

Ambassador Child, American observer at Lausanne, has already discussed the subject with Marquis Curzon, British foreign minister, it was said.

Sanitarium Ground Breaking Ceremonies Are Entirely Cancelled

Due to unsettled weather conditions, the ground breaking ceremonies for the new Glendale Sanitarium have been called off. This program was noon, December 17, but as it would be almost impossible for machines to get to the location there will be no program until the laying of the corner stone.

This announcement comes from
C. E. Kimlin of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Masonic temple amid a beautiful setting of chrysanthemums, the new of them, with the exception of the worthy patron-elect, who wore the customary evening attire, were gowned in white and carried bouquets of sweet peas in the pastel shades. Miss Lyon wore an attractive gown of white georgette crepe with crystal bead trimming and white satin brocade slippers, carrying a bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses. Mrs. Evelyn G. Pierce, planist, furnished the music during the installation ceremonies. Preceding the installation of officers a vocal solo, "Chanson Provencale" (Dell Auga) was rendered by Ma-

John Howard Plummer at the piano.
She gave "Will o' the Wisp" (Spross) as an encore. Mrs. Stearns

ONLY FORTY EIGHT OUT OF 950 VOTE FOR ANNEXATION WITH L.A.

First Referendum on Consolidation Shows Business Men Are Almost Solidly Against the Plans of Those Who Would Unite With Los Angeles;
Test of Question of Utmost Importance to Glendale

EARLY COUNT, BEGINNING AT TEN O'CLOCK, SHOWS SENTIMENT

Overwhelming Rejection of All the Propaganda Is Indicated by the Storm of Ballots That Swarm Into the Box During the Last Two Days;
More Than 5 to 1 Against Destroying City Government

Only forty-eight voted for annexation, out of the 950 ballots sent out in the Chamber of Commerce referendum.
Of the total of 435 votes cast, 387 voted against annexation.
The ballots represented a 50 per cent referendum of the membership, an astonishing indication of interest in Glendale.

By a vote of practically eight to one, the Glendale Chamber of Commerce turned down the proposition of annexation to Los Angeles.

The referendum test on this question, which started Wednesday morning and ended at noon today, resulted in an unexpectedly sweeping victory for the anti.

As this is the first real test on the question held in Glendale it is of utmost importance. It shows absolutely the will of the people of the city in this matter. It is evidence, more emphatic than words could possibly show, that Glendale wants none of this annexation "stuff." The people here are satisfied to remain as they are. They have a city of which they are proud, and they want it so to remain.

This vote will set at rest, at least so far as the present "annexation scare" is concerned, the question as to whether Glendale wishes to join her big sister to the south.

The matter was put squarely before the members of the organization, including those members who are registered from Los Angeles and whose business interests are now located in that city. There is some question as to whether the members living in Los Angeles should have been allowed to vote.

The annexationists had all the benefit of the doubt when it came to the form of the ballot, and this was only one box for voting, and was this opposite the words, "In Favor of Annexation." Anyone voting in the usual way of simply placing a cross in the square would have registered a vote for annexation, notwithstanding the fact that he may be opposed to the move and may have misunderstood the voting instructions.

At annexation is a live and vital question is shown by the large vote polled. Out of a membership of 1000 a total vote of 435 was cast. This is the largest percentage vote cast in Glendale for years.

At the very outset of the vote the ballots started to pour into the chamber, and they continued to arrive until shortly before noon today. Every mail brought a large number of ballots, with the result that when the counting committee, consisting of A. L. Baird, H. M.
Butts and W. F. Tower, began counting the votes at 10 o'clock this morning the ballot box was filled almost to capacity.

The anti is jubilant over the decisive victory. They believe that it evidences without question the will of the people as a whole on this question. They feel that the total vote is a good forecast of what will happen if the annexation question is really brought to a vote.

"It is a wonderful victory, but I expected it," said V. M. Hollister, former president of the chamber,
this morning.

Secretary Pilling of the Merchants' Credit association, who lived in Los Angeles for several years, says he is unalterably opposed to the annexation of Glendale to Los Angeles, for many reasons which he enumerated in part as follows:

"In the first place we would lose our individuality and identity after all the advertising we have had throughout the United States as the fastest growing city in the country."

"Another reason is the Los Angeles indebtedness we would have to assume in addition to paying our own debts which would impose a heavy burden of taxation."

"As to the sewer problem, we can solve it ourselves sooner than we can secure relief through Los Angeles, the officials of that city having frankly told us that no help from that quarter can be had under five to seven years."

SPARR HEIGHTS DEDICATION ON DEC. 24

Error in Publicity in Second Section of Glendale Press Today

The dedication of the Sparr Heights community center building will take place on December 24, as stated in the advertising in the second section of the Glendale Daily Press today. In the same section there is a story stating it would take place December 17, tomorrow.

The managers of the Sparr Heights property explained the conflict by declaring prices on the lots were due for a raise on December 17. They had not intended to state the dedication would be held on that date.

So remember, dedication, with elaborate ceremonies, on December 24.

NEW BUNGALOW COURT TO BE STARTED

There are many people who have confidence in the future of Glen-

Thomas, who has just started the will cost $30,800 to complete.

In this court there will be fourteen 4-room homes, every one a model of completeness. It is the intention of the builder to complete this court in the shortest possible time.

REV. EDMONDS TO BEGIN TWELFTH YEAR OF WORK

Sunday Services at First Presbyterian Church to Be of Special Interest

The services at the Presbyterian Church tomorrow will be of special interest owing to the fact that the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, is entering the twelfth year of his work in Glendale. Fitting recognition will be made of this fact in the services tomorrow.

Under the leadership of Dr. Edmonds the local church has in the past eleven years grown from an organization of one hundred members to more than eleven hundred members. A new church building is in process of erection which when finished will be one of the finest and most complete in Southern California. Every branch of the work is in a flourishing condition. The work has grown to such an extent that for the past two years the Rev. Louis Tinning has been employed as assistant pastor.

Dr. Edmonds enjoys the confidence and esteem of his own people and also of the community in general to a most flattering degree. He has served as moderator of the Presbytery of Los Angeles and during the current year is chairman of the Foreign Missions department of the state of California. Both these offices are among the highest honors which his brethren of the Presbyterian church could bestow on him.

The outstanding success of the local church work is due in large part to the unusually strong groups of men on the official boards. There are in the local congregation more than fifty ordained elders, twenty-one of whom are serving as ruling elders at the present time. In addition the boards of trustees and deacons are made up of men of the finest type. The fact that these boards are working in perfect harmony with each other and with the pastor and that they have a large vision for the church, has contributed much of success to the work.

Mrs. J. H. Emerson of West 44th street, Los Angeles, who has been the guest of her step-daughter, Mrs. Colin Cable, returned to her home the early part of the week.

The next selection was a group of vocal solos by Dudley Bernays, who was accompanied by Mrs. LeRoy Bosserman. The entertainment closed with all joining in singing "America."

Following this splendid program, delicious pie, cheese and coffee were served to one of the largest crowds ever out to a P. T. A. meeting. They met in the central hall of the school and the place was packed, which proves more than ever the need for an auditorium for Glendale. Everyone upon leaving wanted to know when their next meeting would be so that they might attend, for they had such a pleasant time. LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President
American Society for Thrift.

Thrift of effort is personal efficiency, which depends largely on one's willingness to concentrate on one thing at a time.

Carelessness in the performance of a duty no matter how trivial it may seem constitutes one of the worst drawbacks to personal success.

An old adage, tells us that anything worth doing, is worth doing well. There is no place in our progressive American life today for the slipshod, careless person. Those who merely shuffle along, dodging essential details, are out of place in our current life.

Opportunities to broaden and advance come only to those who prove their ability, step by step, and are willing to take infinite pains with each thing they do. Nature does not endow us with the genius of doing big things quickly and well. Progress must be acquired by diligent application and concentration, first upon the seemingly unimportant tasks and then on those of constantly increasing consequence.

Learn how to do well one thing at a time. This involves not only the feat of accomplishing the definite undertaking, but it is a lesson in accuracy as well.

The mistake often is made of trying to do too much or of endeavoring to advance too rapidly. As a result no forward steps are taken, time and energy are used up trying to correct mistakes made under pressure of undue haste, and a general condition of inefficiency results.

Study concentration. It is a thrift of energy which is just as necessary to our welfare as thrift of money.

A Daily Tour of Glendale Stores

SHAVE BOOK STORE PROVES PROFITABLE

The Shave Book Store since opening has enjoyed a big run of business and has employed several clerks to assist in the holiday trade. Frank Meyers, a decorator of ability, is connected with the store. He has been in Glendale for the past nineteen years and has followed the decorating business in Los Angeles a greater part of the time. He will remain with the Shave Book Store, which is carrying one of the largest stocks of books, stationery, etc., to be found in this section. Popular reprints in fiction are one of the big features of this store. Mr. Shave has been in the stationery business for many years and is thoroughly wide-awake to its requirements.

AT THE THEATRES

NIGHT OF COMEDY AT THE GLENDALE THEATER

The Elliott Johnson Revue presenting a "Song and Dance Revue" will be included among the new acts booked to open at the Glendale Theatre Saturday, December 16. This is a delightful offering and one that has been a great favorite in every house along the circuit. The Kolo Comedy Trio will offer "A Boob and Two Blondes." Wards will contribute "The Female Politician," an act that is crammed with merriment and up-to-the-minute material. Crowley & Burke are announced as "The Peerless Southern Singers." They possess splendid voices and their selections are the sort that are sure to prove popular.

May and Kilduff have a rural comedy entitled "The Lamb of the Law." There are plenty of laughs in this offering and the manner in which it is staged is sure to get it over the footlights in great style. Dorothy Gish's introduction of "The Country Flapper," is positively a new creation. It will be shown at the Glendale Theatre tonight only. The coquettish, merry and original snappy mas of the city has been competition in "The Country Flapper." In small towns in nearly every state, Country Flapper flocks are being organized, in many societies she is called the health girl. Prominent physicians come forward with the statement that the flapper careless dress, the sandals shoes, the rolled down stockings, and the bobbed hair are healthful habits and certainly more sanitary than the long, clumsy gown sweeping dresses that designers are vainly seeking to resurrect as style.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM

Bearing the extremely interesting title, "Love is An Awful Thing," there will come to the Glendale Theatre Sunday for a three-day run, one of the most hilarious and uproarious joyous farces seen on the screen in a long time. Cards have been received in Glendale announcing the birth December 4 of David Thomas McQueen, Jr. to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. McQueen of 1033 1/2 West 25th street, Los Angeles. Mrs. McQueen was Miss Evelyn Berger of this city before her marriage.

Sunday the T. D. & L. Theatre will present Constance Talmadge in "East is West," the most elaborate and dazzling super-production seen in Glendale in over a year. For worlds—don't miss it—it is some show!

What People Say of Community Service

Prominent Manufacturer:
"One of the great needs of the time is that men shall get together, think together, work together. Community Service not only affords the opportunity, but adds the encouragement for such activity, together with assistance to make it effective."

"Community Service shows the way to effective community effort, and ought to make every town and city where it is tested a real old-fashioned neighborhood."

"LOUIS A. COOLIDGE,
"President United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Boston, Mass."

Vice-President of the United States:

"I take great satisfaction in commending Community Service. In the desire to make America a better, happier place in which to live, it aims to give one an opportunity for the joy of self-expression, to make each feel that he 'belongs,' to promote a feeling of brotherhood among men and to inspire all to pull together, forgetting petty differences in the consciousness of a common cause."

"CALVIN COOLIDGE,
"Washington, D. C."

Herbert Hoover says:
"Service to the community should be the earmark of citizenship. We have gone on these many score years elaborating upon the principles of American citizenship, but outside of a few movements, such as Boy Scouts and Community Service, we have had little attention directed to the obligation of citizenship itself. Citizenship in these times and in all times, is an obligation not a privilege."

President Harding says:
"I would like to have a little less or much less destruction and more resources for construction in America. I would like to have less of toil to maintain armies and navies and more of play to hearten the American people. I don't believe the best of success comes out of constant grind. I would like an America where there is a becoming leisure and opportunity for recreation, not for just a few people, but for a fortunate American people in which all may participate."

DRAFT QUESTION A MONEY MATTER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Arguments between the major and the minor leagues over the draft question are too complicated a matter for the ordinary fan to get himself wildly excited about.

One of the easiest ways to explain the differences between the minor and major leagues on the draft is to turn to page 5 of the report of John Farrell, secretary of the national association, and find:

Amount paid for assignment of contracts, minors to majors $894,550
Additional amounts due if players are retained 222,850

That is a total of $1,117,400 that the minors drew in one season for sales of players to the major leagues.

If the draft prevailed, the names of those players would be stuck in a hat, the major league owner would pull them out and give the owners of the player an amount varying from $1500 to $2500. And the ones that are going up next spring might not have drawn more than $200,000 in the draft.

Ban Johnson, criticising the refusal of the heading minor leagues to accept the draft, said that sending players to them is like throwing the players in bondage. How about the two rookie shortstops the Yanks bought?

ATTEMPTS MURDER ON WESTBOUND S. P. TRAIN

W. B. Ogletree of San Francisco Shot Fellow Passengers

ELKO, NEV., Dec. 15.—W. B. Ogletree of San Francisco is in a hospital here today suffering from a bullet wound in his neck, and Mrs. F. Wohlgant of Miles City, Mont., and her husband, were detained by the sheriff's office accused of responsibility for the shooting.

Ogletree was shot while aboard Southern Pacific train No. 19 late yesterday. He was en route from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

No cause for the shooting has been made thus far.

Mrs. Wohlgant is alleged to have fired the shot.

Mrs. Wohlgant and her husband were turned over to the sheriff.

Ogletree was said to be well known in San Francisco, where he is in the insurance business, and in Salt Lake.

Wohlgant and his wife were en route from Miles City, Mont., to Porterville, Calif.

IF YOU SUSPECT CANCER

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

It would be difficult to overestimate the number of people who needlessly die from cancer because, from a false modesty or sheer cowardice, they postpone the medical examination which they admit to themselves they ought to have.

Typical of the attitude far too commonly taken by grown men and women is the case of a man who consulted a physician because of persistent distress after eating, pain, belching of gas and nausea.

Cadaverous-looking, of sallow complexion and plainly anaemic, his account of his symptoms at once created a grave suspicion in the physician's mind. X-ray examination confirmed this suspicion, warranting a positive diagnosis of cancer of the stomach, in an advanced stage.

"Is this the first time you have sought medical advice regarding your condition?" the physician asked the unhappy man.

"Yes, I have seen no one else."

"But you must have been troubled by it a long time?"

"I have been. Only I could not bring myself to see anybody, for fear I should be told I had cancer."

Typical, too, is the statement of a woman found to be afflicted with an inoperable cancer of the uterus. Fear had not held her back from the examination she well knew she should have had long before. But a false modesty had restrained her.

"I was aware of what such an examination would involve, and I dreaded the thought of undergoing it. So I kept hoping against hope that the irregular discharge which troubled me meant nothing in particular and would cease of its own accord."

Women like this are, clearly, the victims of sad misconceptions. And in the main their faulty attitude is the product of an upbringing calculated to develop in them what physicians rightly regard as "foolish and dangerous prejudices."

Yet, whatever blame attaches to their upbringing, the fact remains that they imperil their lives if, in such cases as the above, they permit their false modesty to overcome the dictate of common sense.

So with those who, fearing they may have cancer, fear still more to ascertain whether they actually have it. The longer they put off the day of medical consultation, the greater the danger if cancer really has attacked them.

VIOLET LEATHER DRESSING BAG

A most delightful dressing bag is of violet leather, and is fitted most completely in violet and white enamel. The large oval mirror is securely fitted into the top, and there is plenty of room for all the things a modern woman finds so necessary.

HOOKE RUGS

Remarkably beautiful in design and color are hooked rugs which are of different sizes and shadings.

RUSSIAN HATS THE VOGUE

Little Russian hats embroidered in metal threads or in bright colored silks are attracting much attention.

Truths in Epigram

The nodding of the head does not make the boat to row.—Gaelic Proverb.

Whatever is made by the hand of man, by the hand may be overturned.—Herbert.

The heart becomes heroic by the might of passion.—Hugo.

COMFORTING SENATOR LODGE

This part of the world is outside the sphere of influence of which Senator Lodge is the center. It is thus enabled to take a fair look at him. It does not have to waive prejudice, for it is not prejudiced. It admits freely that Senator Lodge is a gentleman, and a scholar. Thus when Lodge was returned to office by a majority so small that it for a time had distressingly low visibility, and took on the aspect of a minority, it is seemingly to express curiosity as to what may ail the voters of Massachusetts.

A Connecticut paper of high standing says: "Massachusetts would have suffered far more than Lodge if he had been beaten. . . . Talk of his 'humiliation' is amusing. It is Massachusetts that just escapes the results of its own stupidity."

This must be highly comforting to Lodge and his immediate coterie of friends, and yet it appears, from a distance, to lack conclusiveness. From what would the state have suffered? Surely in all that commonwealth there are other citizens of social standing, others who are familiar with literature, others who under all conditions, are gentlemen.

Throughout the country Senator Lodge has lost a measure of his former standing, for the country had not been pleased with his attitude towards a separate peace with Germany. He seems also to have lost some at home. No disgrace to anybody is involved. There are ups and downs in politics, and even good candidates get left occasionally. Had this been the fate of Lodge, he would have found himself in company of which there could be no occasion to be ashamed.

THE MODERN MIRACLE MAN

Dr. Miller Royal Whitnack has just passed away, resting from labors so wonderfully benign, that many had called him the "Miracle Man."

Dr. Whitnack's fine skill and his abundant affection were devoted to children. In treatment of the little ones, in making whole the maimed, he exercised a veritable wizardry, so profound was his knowledge and so indomitable his will to help them. The children loved him, and their parents held him in reverent esteem.

As the doctor, forgetting himself in the ardor of his professional toil, succumbed to overwork, and lay in a hospital at Newark, the whole community felt that a calamity was impending. Prayers for his recovery went up from homes that had been blessed by his ministrations. In churches of all denominations the hope that he might be spared was expressed in countless petitions. Protestant, Catholic and Jew, in respect of this great, good man, were unconscious of any difference in creed.

These matters go far beyond human understanding. Dr. Whitnack went to his reward. The fond desire that would have held him back, availed nothing. He will be remembered long. His career, self-sacrificing, unswerving in purpose, was a high and splendid record for the efforts of any man to have achieved.

SETTING HIGH BAIL

According to allegations on which a man has been held to answer, he stole more than fifty thousand dollars from an old woman who had trusted him. Because of this she finds herself at 75, stripped of means of support. The court set his bail at $25,000. His lawyers request a reduction to $5,000, stating that their client could give the latter sum. The request is refused.

If there is good reason for low bail in such a case as this, it must be that the "presumption of innocence," ordinarily, or at least, often, a figment, is present to such a degree as to be conclusive. Were a man able to steal fifty thousand dollars, and then put up a tenth of the amount as bond, there would be nothing to suggest to him the propriety of appearing for trial. His natural course would be to be far away at the date set for him to face the court. By this he would be much ahead of the game financially, even evading counsel fees.

The question of bail is a delicate one. The constitution says that it shall not be excessive. The wisdom by which to determine the point at which it would become excessive, is not at command always, even of the able jurist. Surely the bond should be sufficient to hold the accused. If it is so small that there would be profit in forfeiting it, it hardly may be considered as above the constitutional limit.

STILL THE "UNSPEAKABLE"

Lord Curzon, at the Near East conference, stated that the Armenian population had been reduced from 3,000,000 to 130,000. No particular excitement appears to have followed the announcement. Perhaps it was not a surprise to those present, in diplomatic negotiations with the Turk, who was responsible for the wholesale murders, the murder of a race; slaughter probably without parallel in all history.

The fate of Armenia blazes to the world the fact that the Turk is unspeakable still; that he is a thing of cruelty, and has no more part with civilization than a wild beast among the flocks and droves of humanity. It is contemplation of this fact that causes wonder that there should be parley and politeness with such a monster.

Had the allies stood together morally, they could have kept the Turk out of Europe. Had they prevented Greece from invading Turkey and bringing back the hordes of Islam, red-bladed, at their heels, the privilege of the Turk to dictate, or even to suggest terms, could not have eventuated.

It is not to be marveled at that there should have been an impulsive demand, even in this country, for war against the Turk. It was not logical, it was not in consonance with the national desire for peace, or with the policy of permitting Europe to settle its own troubles. But it was the response of human nature, evoked because the Turk is a hideous entity embodying a threat to the world, now as ever "unspeakable."

There seems likely soon to be a vacancy on the supreme bench of the United States. California has one representative on that bench, but he is old, and the possibility of retirement is said to be in his mind. For many years California has been represented in the highest tribunal, and there is material available for continuation of this policy.

Many a seemingly successful man owes it all to his wife's father.

Every man thinks he is the proper one to stand around and boss the job.

The Best Element In Education

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Slowly the world is learning that the best element in education is the work the child does to get it. This is even penetrating the mind of educators.

Dr. Frank Crane

At a meeting of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching the other day much attention was given to the idea of putting the burden of the expense of a college education on the student, instead of on the college. This has grown, college officials say, out of the increasing expense of furnishing a higher education and the increasing number applying for it.

Because of this, various educators of late have been demanding that some form of selection be exercised among those who wish to enter college.

President E. M. Hopkins of Dartmouth college last September aroused controversy when he advocated that college opportunities be reserved for "the aristocracy of brains." He added that he was opposed to any selection on the ground of birth or wealth. Columbia university recently took a step increasing the cost of education when its teachers' salaries were raised, and tuition fees were increased thirty-three and one-third per cent at that time.

The Carnegie Foundation provides funds for pensions and annuities to college and university professors, and as admission to the foundation's accepted list depends upon compliance with certain educational and other requirements, the suggestions which it makes in its reports as to educational matters are listened to with respect.

Opportunity for education should be open to all, but making education easy is not a good thing. It is a pretty safe general rule that an education for which one has not struggled is of little value to him. Effort, self-denial and labor are the only roads to anything in this life that is worth while.

This does not mean, however, that education should be made expensive. To do so would be merely to limit it to the rich. It would defeat the purpose, for it would make education easy for the rich and impossible for the poor.

The one absolute requirement should be labor, and especially for the rich. No boy or girl should be allowed to go through college any other way than by work. And by work we mean some sort of labor for which other people are willing to pay money.

One outstanding institution in the field of education is Antioch college in Ohio. Here there is no question of a student working if he is not able to pay, but all the students are required to work. The routine is five weeks of work and five weeks of study.

And the boy who is not willing to work, or whose parents are not willing to have him work, is not wanted in the institution.

Here at last is education with its feet on the ground. One business of education certainly ought to be to liberate the mind of youth from the shackles of silly tradition and ancient fraud, which is quite as important as loading the mind down with old things. And one of the most stupendous bunkum ideas in the world is the idea that work is degrading or is only to be done by those who haven't money or wit enough to escape it.

Work is life, and a preparation for life that does not involve work is absurd.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

My boy, don't sit back silently and be misunderstood.

For it is a sad thing to be misunderstood. It is a sad thing to have people think you are a woodpecker, when you are in reality a song bird.

And in a great measure it will be your own fault if people have that misconception.

People are likely to take you for what you seem to be.

Because they do not always have time to inquire closely.

If you present a crusty and hateful exterior they are likely to think you are crusty and hateful.

When as a matter of fact you may be kindly and gentle.

You may be merely putting forth the wrong of you.

Put the best side of you into the world. In that way people will better understand what you really are.

There is nothing to be gained by sitting back and fretting over misunderstanding.

Life should be a giving forth. Not a holding back.

Don't withhold your real self. Give it.

If you are disposed to smile, do it.

Don't withhold it.

If you are disposed to be friendly, be so.

Don't withhold friendliness.

Don't wall about your real nature with a rugged reserve.

If you do you are likely to be misunderstood.

Don't pull down all the shades and curtains of your soul.

Let the firelight of you glow through the windows.

So people passing by may see and be cheered.

Go forth.

Give.

And you will not be misunderstood.

And the drawn shades make you look like a vacant dwelling.

Cheerless, cold and dismal.

You do not have to be misunderstood unless you wish to be.

You may let the world know what is inside of you.

By the things you do.

The attitude you assume.

The greetings you give.

A BATHTUB FABLE, IT GREW BY DEGREES

The first bathtub in the United States was built in Cincinnati and installed in a home in that city so recently as 1842—just 80 short years ago.

That bathtub was made of mahogany, lined with sheet lead and its far-seeing owner proudly exhibited it at a Christmas party.

The next day the newspapers of Cincinnati denounced it in no uncertain terms as a luxurious and undemocratic vanity.

Then along came the medical men and solemnly pronounced it a menace to health.

It is interesting to note that in 1843 Philadelphia undertook to prohibit by public ordinance bathing between November 1 and March 15.

Boston in 1845 made bathing unlawful, except when prescribed by a physician, and Virginia was so wrought up that she taxed bathtubs $30 a year.

Consider the great progress that has been achieved in the matter of bathtubs and sanitary appliances within the brief span of 80 years.

Even the humblest homes are today fitted with bathtubs, which would make our Cincinnati friend's original exhibit crude, indeed.

Vision, if you will, the up-to-date home with its tile bathroom, its twin tubs, its needle and shower baths, and all of the appliances that contribute to comfort and health.

The development of this industry with that of thousands of others is a potent and active tribute to the genius and wisdom of America.

BUILDER MAY MAKE CHANGES

The home builder, without invalidating the contract, may make changes by altering, adding to, or deducting from the work, the contract sum being adjusted accordingly. All such work shall be executed under the conditions of the original contract, except that any claims for extension of time caused thereby shall be adjusted at the time of ordering such change, and no changes shall be made unless in pursuance of a written contract countersigned by the architect, and no claims for an addition in the contract sum shall be valid unless so ordered.

STREAMS OF GOLD REAL ESTATE MEN ARE FLOWING HERE TO ATTEND 'SCHOOL

Waiting for you today, in California, is more gold—better gold—than was pictured in all the dreams of all the pioneers.

It's the gold of the great, productive valleys, the mighty forests, the almost unlimited hydro-electric

The members of the California Real Estate Association have been invited by Dr. Elwood Mead, chief of division of land settlement, to attend the short course in land settlement at the University of California, February 4-8, 1923, at Berkeley. This announcement was made public by Dr. Herman Janss,

LEAD 'HUMAN ANT TRAILS' INTO GLENDALE DISTRICT

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Civic Development Expert

"Ant trails of humans are crossing the continent to California," says Henry S. McKee, Los Angeles banker, who has just returned by automobile from New York. Ponder that statement for a moment. It is made by a conservative bank chief.

In Colorado a garage keeper said to the banker: "Holy Moses, is there any room in California for more people? They have been passing my station just as fast as they could roll all day long for weeks and weeks, and there's no let-up."

Is there no significance for Glendale in these "ant trails of humans" that are making black lines across the continent? These trails are not of tourists, bound westward upon seasonal visits, but of settlers, home-seekers and investors, coming here to stay and become Californians.

"The cars along the roads are filled with women folk and babies and household belongings tied on at every corner and all are headed for this region," said McKee. To the banker it looked as if a vast hieira had set in toward Southern California.

Similar reports are brought here constantly by other travelers. "All the world is headed for Southern California," was the enthusiastic assertion of another recent arrival from the east. And most of the heading is straight for the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

In the many thousands that are coming there must be some proportion that could be attracted to Glendale. In the face of the possible influx there ought not to be any hesitancy in putting through necessary improvements here that would increase that attraction.

If inlets and outlets be not sufficient for present needs how can we expect to attract additional population? If the street system is inadequate, if there be no parks and playgrounds for those already here, if there be no lines of demarkation between residential, business and industrial districts, what excuse is there for inviting still more people to come and settle in this community?

With the positive knowledge that tens of thousands of families in the east and middle west, weary of the constantly recurring battles against heat and cold and storm and discomfort, are looking to California and more particularly to Southern California, as their haven of rest and happiness, every reasonable effort ought to be made to get our house in order for the attraction and reception of new permanent dwellers.

A million dollars spent now in preparation might seem like a big item in comparison with other expenditures for improvements, but it is calculated to be infinitesimally small in comparison with results to be achieved. Every million in public betterment will bring ten millions in private improvements besides immediate gains in population.

It is estimated that more than three-fourths of westward moving families bring with them sufficient funds for the cash purchase of homes and the remainder are in position and mood for the acquirement of property on easy payment plans. A thousand families brought into this community would mean a thousand new homes in and around this city, and a thousand new accounts with local banks, shops and markets.

This splendid little city with its superb advantages in location, climate, beauty, roads and schools ought to attract the very choicest of incoming home-seekers. By making its entrances easy and safe, improving its street system, beautifying its approaches, laying out parks and playgrounds, zoning its residential, business and industrial sections and generally putting itself in order to attract the best it will bring here the most desirable of all home-seekers.

In the face of potentialities now looming large before us the cost of preparation for the future would be so comparatively small it would be lost in the quick increase in property values induced by the influx of new residents. Some of the "human ant trails" across the continent may be led to this city by preparing a way for them.

power, the mines and oil fields, the busy cities—the gold there is in life where Nature is always bountiful and people are prosperous.

California's Great Valley is one enormous agricultural bowl, dotted with thriving cities. It produces not only more than half the raisins of the world, but also enormous crops of grain, rice, vegetables, oranges, prunes, figs, peaches, apricots, pears, cherries, olives, walnuts and almonds.

Around Glendale is the greatest citrus district in the world. The Imperial valley is a garden spot for early fruits and vegetables.

The fruit, grain, poultry and dairy products of the Santa Clara, Napa, Sonoma, Salinas and other valleys in the Coast range, help to make the California farmer the most prosperous in the world.

It is possible on this map to indicate only a few of the cities, sights and advantages of this great state.

Three and a half million people live gloriously in California today. In this great state, larger than all the New England states, New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Ohio combined, there is room for fifty million.

Will you be among them?

There is room for you in Glendale—room for you to grow and prosper.

Here in Glendale is a wider latitude of opportunities for success to the average man or woman—more contented, larger living—greater happiness and wealth—not only for the privileged few who have it in their power to select ideal living conditions, but also for every man and woman of ambition.

Whether you are an agriculturist, an industrialist, a professional practitioner, a home-seeker, or a tourist—no matter, Glendale has a place for you.

A million acres of irrigated land is ready for farmers—substantial, profit-making opportunities are ready for capital—every town and city is eager to welcome good citizens.

More and more people are finding that life is better here. From 1910 to 1920, California increased 44.1 per cent in population. The United States as a whole increased 14.9 per cent. The great migration has begun with Glendale as the objective Promised Land. This rapidly growing population is bringing business opportunities, increased property values and countless openings for those with moderate capital and good business judgment.

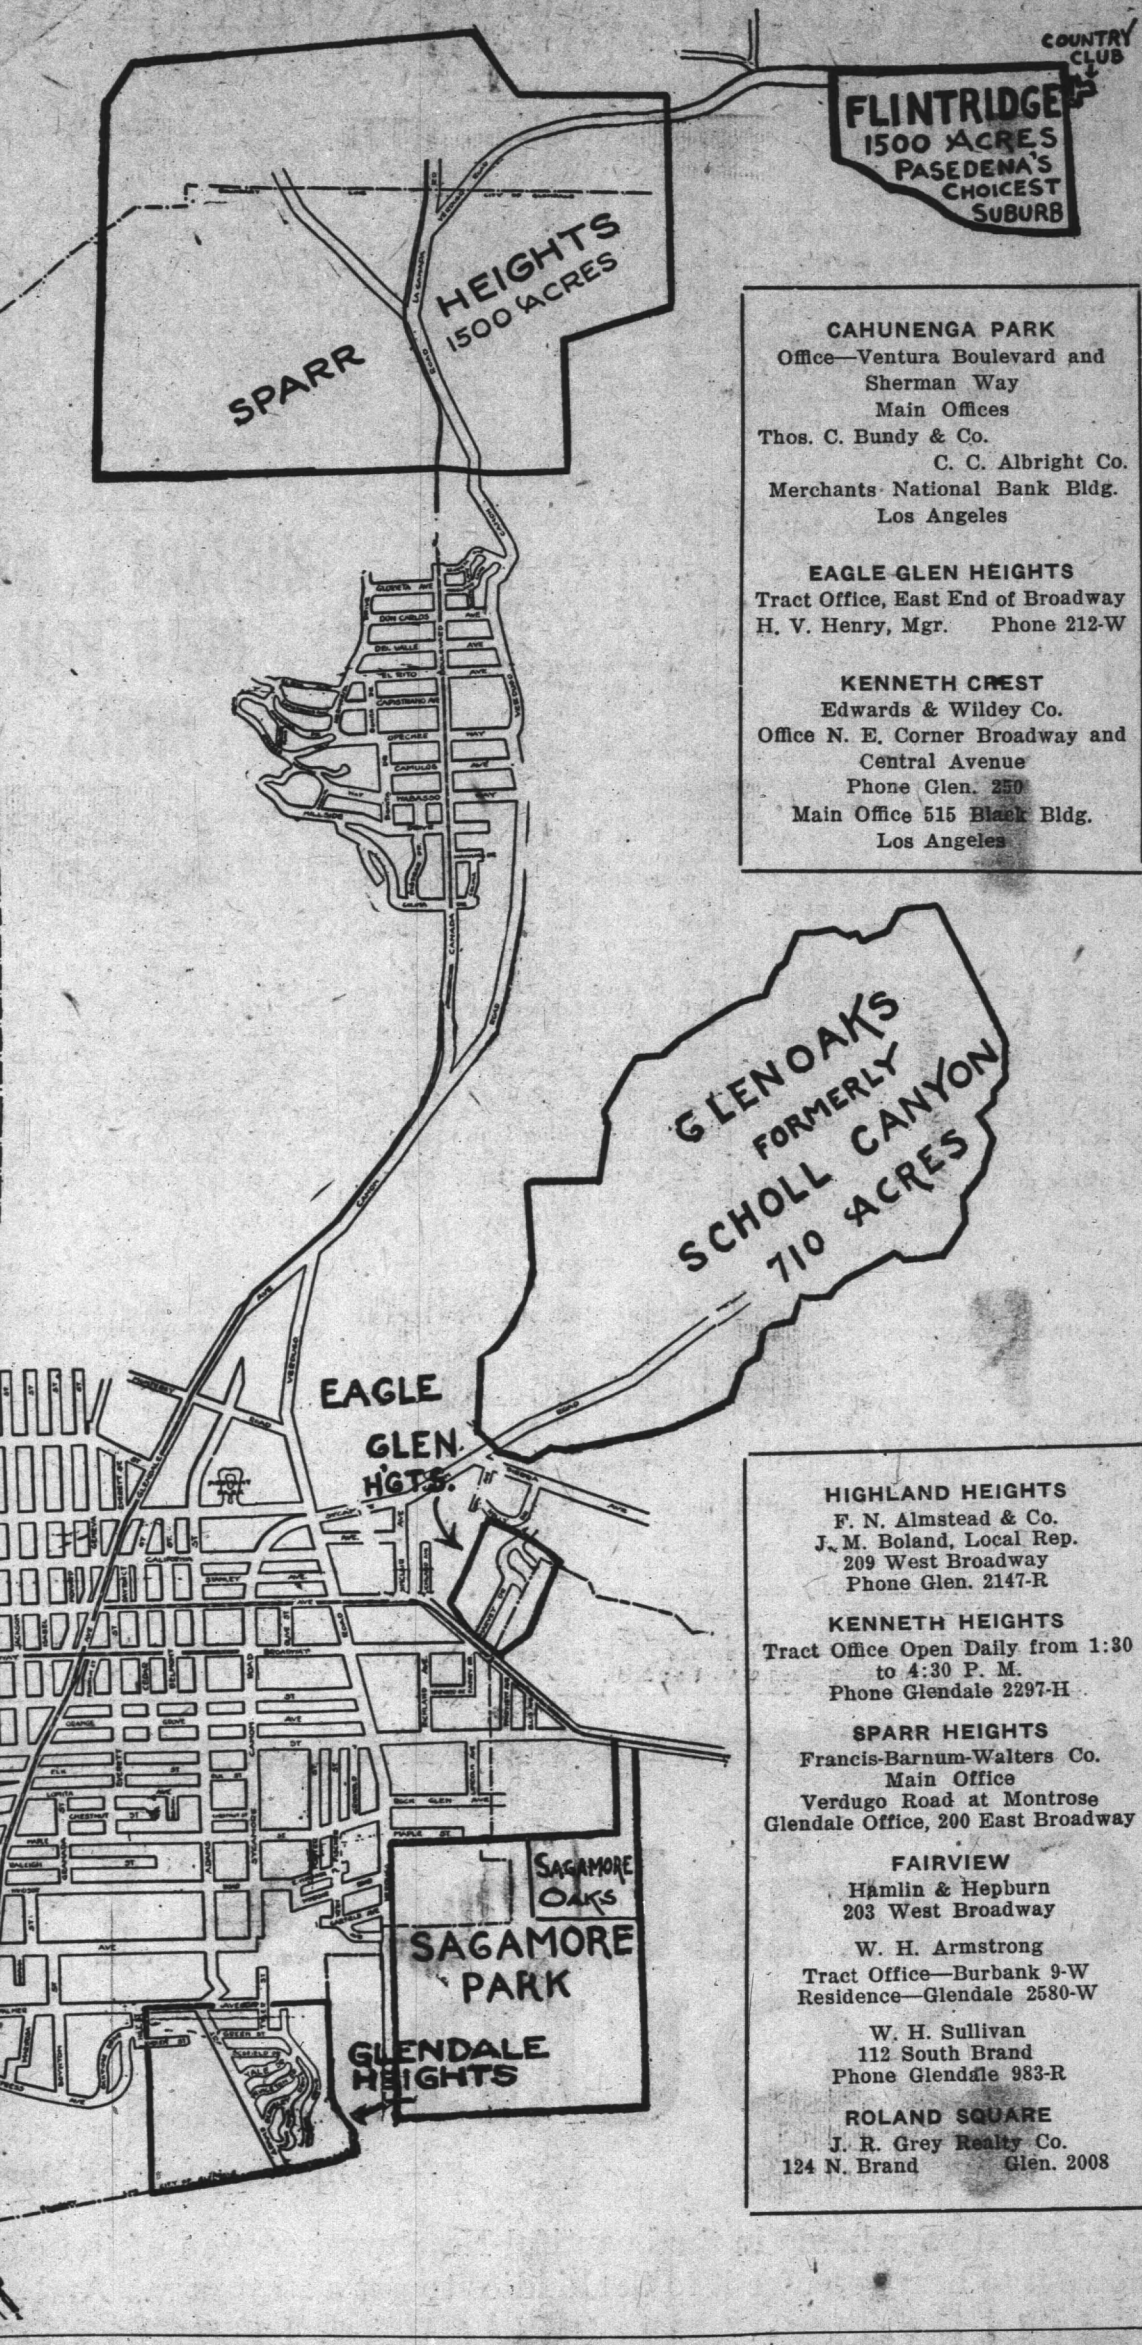

Glendale invites you now—today—to come and share our life and prosperity. Your shoulders, your spirit, are needed. If your heart is hungry for better life, and your substance is sufficient, come to Glendale. Here is unspoiled opportunity, striding, vigorous life and productive harmony of soil and elements.

chairman of the colonization and farm land settlement committee of the state association. In a letter to the chairman Dr. Mead said: "Last year the twenty-two appraisers of the Federal land bank were present. This year we want to have the California Real Estate Association take an active part. We want land owners, bankers and real estate authorities to have a hand in this program so that they will know what the university is doing, and, being in touch with it, be able to make it a more effective instrument of service than ever before."

Chairman Janss will be host to the California Farm Lands men at a dinner next Thursday evening at Santa Ana, during the state convention. He has received acceptance from many farm lands men, indicating a wide range of attendance. All the great valleys are to be represented. There will be a round table forum at this dinner, and problems incidental to the placing of farm lands on the market will be discussed. The recent meeting of the California land owners and realtors in San Francisco brought out the fact that they are unanimous for the amending of the realty license act to place farm land subdividing under the direct control and supervision of the State Real Estate Commissioner. Chairman Janss, who is one of the leading colonizers in the San Joaquin valley and recently toured the eastern states, consulting with rural land authorities and editors of farm papers, has announced that this winter publishers and editors of leading eastern farm papers will be shown around California in a special train. Thus they will learn first hand about California farm lands.

IT PAYS TO CARE FOR CAR

BRICKS WITHOUT STRAW ARE NEW

In ancient times the Children of Israel were compelled by their Egyptian task masters to make brick with mud alone, leaving out the straw binder. Modern science has developed a brick which not only omits the straw but even leaves out the mud.

These are bricks of warmth, color and tone, which have inherent strength and durability, and yet are not limited to a few commonplace colors and forms! Bricks which have beauty combined with strength, warmth of color in connection with lasting durability and depth of tone enduring in permanent form.

These qualifications are inherent in concrete face brick, that brick which gives both strength and ornamentation to a building.

The tremendous building program that is going on throughout this county at the present time is daily proving the great worth of concrete products for building purposes.

Discerning men, who had an ambition to see concrete products properly recognized, took hold of the entire field of concrete products and have raised the business from the plane of the small, unenlightened back yard maker, who was often both financially and ethically irresponsible, to the high plane of a sound, thoroughly organized, intelligently administered business, with a high standard of ethics, an exacting standard of quality for its products and a financial standing that makes for soundness and responsibility.

One of the products is concrete face brick, the brick that is used on the front of the building, primarily for ornamentation, but which, nevertheless, must have inherent strength and permanence.

By much research work, and the expenditure of time and money, some of the most beautiful tones and textures of concrete face brick are now being manufactured in this city.

There are beautiful whites, also creams and blues for the more delicate colors, and buff, two-tone buff, Syrian brown and Indian buff for softness and warmth of feeling; imperial red, oriental tan, old gold and mahogany for boldness, depth and strength.

Nor are these designs monotonous, for each has its own individuality and varies slightly from its neighbor in its color effects. Various textures may be had in these several colors, such as plain, stipple or tapestry textures and other colors in combination of colors may be had on order.

A combination of two or more colors of bricks may be selected so as to work out the most artistic design for the front of your building, for the decorative fountain in your candy shop, or the ornamental fixtures in your banking room.

The elements entering into a concrete face brick of quality are as follows:

First of all, the brick must have structural strength. Recently, crushing tests were run on concrete face brick taken from the stock piles of a manufacturer of this city, in which the brick withstood an average load of 90,000 pounds, over three times as much as is required under the rigid specifications of the city of Los Angeles.

Second, the aggregate, or in other words the sand, gravel, etc., must be of such gradation as to result in a maximum surface for the mortar, thus creating the highest type of wall construction.

Third, the facing must be of such richness and density as to give a hard, permanent and waterproof surface.

And last, the coloring and texture of the face of the brick must be designed with an eye to the artistic.

So far has this development of concrete face brick progressed, as to bring to the owners a building unit of the highest quality.

The products are made under the specifications of the American Concrete Institute and the manufacturers themselves are very critical of their own product and have their own association with a code of ethics leading to one end—quality products.

posed to the sea winds, survives considerable quantities of alkali and is quite indifferent to soil.

Most persons are familiar with its appearance, if not with its name.

The different varieties of native sage that grow on our hillsides are all very resistant to drought and afford a great profusion of excellent bloom during the spring months.

The Button Sage, Androbatis nives, is a small shrub with unusually attractive flowers of a delicate lavender or lilac color.

The foliage is a soft, silver gray which harmonizes beautifully with the flowers. It holds its color of foliage quite well during the dry summer months.

The White Sage, Androbatis poly-stachya, also has a beautiful gray foliage, but the flowers occur in tall spikes of white.

It is, perhaps, less ornamental than the button sage, but has decided value for covering dry slopes.

Our Black Sage, Androbatis nives, also has a beautiful gray foliage, but the flowers occur in all who have traveled the trails of our hills.

Its foliage is a very dark green, its flowers are purple. It becomes quite dry looking in the summer, but freshens up quickly with the early rains.

LIFE IS BETTER IN CALIFORNIA; THIS CITY IS JEWEL OF GOLDEN STATE; BETTER GLENDALE IN THE BUILDING

Here Are a Few Facts That Would Cause the Easterner to Stop, Look and Listen—They are Not Dreams, But Realities—Every One True

Life is better in California. There is no need to exaggerate realities.

Life is better here. Financially, we are prosperous. For every one of the 3,500,000 or more persons in the state, savings banks show deposits of $375, against the national average of $224. Half the people in California have savings accounts, whereas the national average is but one in ten. National banks have $230 in deposit for every person in the state, while for the whole country they average only $129.

Forty-five per cent of the farms in California are free from mortgage and California's leading cities have as low as 15 per cent mortgage indebtedness. California's per capita income is more than one and a half times the per capita income for the United States as a whole.

Nearly half of all the money derived from the sale of fruit in the United States falls into the pockets of California farmers. Eighty-three million dollars were received from the citrus crop alone in the year ending August, 1921. Nearly four hundred million dollars' worth of fruit and grain and vegetables grew from our rich soil in 1921.

The two leading agriculture producing counties of the United States are in California and ten others are in the first fifty.

And good land is still available. Each year 7000 new twenty-acre farms are ready for families. Six million more acres are awaiting development. The land is ready. The call is for 50,000 men with reasonable capital and hunger for the soil.

We are all neighbors in California. The isolation is gone from

GARDEN FEATURES FOR THE HOME PLACE

The verdant beauty and practical success of California gardens is generally based upon irrigation, and upon the use of such life-giving waters in abundant quantities.

The nature of the soil in different localities, together with the climatic conditions of exposure and the moisture content of the air, may influence the hardness of different plants in different districts and may even determine what can or cannot be grown; but in a general way the success of the garden will depend upon the irrigation factor and the manner in which water is applied to the soil.

On the other hand, there are vast areas throughout the state to which water cannot be brought and on which, if vegetation is to be established, must be planted those things which require no more than the natural rains that fall during the winter months.

Some soils will grow practically nothing of ornamental value. Some districts afford insufficient water for the maintenance of any but the sturdiest plants.

However, where conditions are adverse to the growing of a wide variety of plant forms, it seems but a matter of logic to select such plants as are native to the locality, or which have established themselves as naturalized species.

In choosing native plants for the dry-land garden there are some which are more drought-resisting than others.

The desert salt brush, Atriplex lentiformis, is a plant that has been much used for hedges, for bank covers and in the garden.

It has a silver gray foliage, is very dense and compact, is impenetrable by dogs or children and will fight its own battles.

It grows in our deserts, thrives along the seacoast where it is ex-

A WONDERFUL STORY—EVOLUTION OF MODERN HEATING APPARATUS; STEPS HAVE BEEN GRADUAL, SURE

Our Ancestors Started With the Open Fire; Then Came the Fireplace, Followed by the Stove; A Remarkable Heating Age Is This

The evolution of home heating is interesting. It started off with the open fire, then came the fireplace, after which Benjamin Franklin invented the first stove. The story is a regular rambling romance.

After that there were numerous improvements in the construction of different types of stoves, until finally some one recognized the possibility of placing a stove, or furnace, as it is now called, in the basement, incasing same with a sheet iron drum and conducting the heat through pipes and registers into the various rooms.

This method of having the heat in each room being superior, of course, to the stove located in the main living room of the house and trying to heat all the rooms from one point.

However, the big feature is that with a warm air basement furnace you are supplying a volume of pure fresh air into your house at all times together with the proper humidity.

Do you know that one-tenth of the deaths in the United States are due to tuberculosis; that fresh air is necessary in the cure of pulmonary diseases, and that proper ventilation in a house should be the first thing thought of in a heating plant?

Fresh air, the most vital essential for the maintenance of health, is free, the only cost being for installing the proper heating and ventilating system when you are building your home.

The average person does not recognize the necessity of a proper ventilating and heating system, therefore, they generally purchase the system that is the cheapest.

As there are no building ordinances or laws governing this line of work, it is up to the heating contractor and architect.

On large buildings where forced ventilation is necessary, we use fans, but in residence work of the average size we use what is termed as a gravity system.

It is very important that the heating contractor use large pipes and registers.

The simplest way of figuring is to use pipes large enough to give a complete change of air every 20 minutes. This assures you of good ventilation.

Getting back to the point of heating again I wish to say that there is more warm air heating systems being installed in California every year.

Due to the quick change in temperature in a short period of five or six hours, we notice the cold here just as much as the people do who live in colder climates. So it is quite necessary to install a system that will heat up very quickly.

There are two types of warm-air heating systems being installed here at this time.

One is a central plant with a furnace large enough to heat all the rooms at one time, keeping all of the rooms at an even temperature and eliminating any drafts in the house and the possibility of going from a warm room into a cold room.

This central system generally is controlled by an automatic heat control that keeps your home at any predetermined temperature.

These heat controls are sometimes equipped with clock attachments, which will turn the heat on and off automatically at night and morning.

The second type of warm air heating is what is known as a unit system.

This is where we use a number of small furnaces, one for every one or two rooms.

By means of electric valves placed on the gas line of each furnace and a push plate located in each room, it is very simple and convenient to operate the heating system.

By pushing the button once, you turn the furnace full on and this position is indicated by a small white signal light.

Then when you have your room or rooms heated to a good temperature you can push the button again and turn the gas half off, and this is indicated by a small red light, and, finally, when you wish to turn the gas completely off you push the button once more.

In addition to the single plates master switches are installed. In a 2-story residence, generally one on each floor is installed.

From the master-switch you can operate any one or all of the furnaces. The master-switch makes a

GIVE HER A LOT FOR CHRISTMAS, SUGGESTION

Give her a lot for Christmas. A lot—a building lot—a real estate lot.

Hamlin & Hepburn, 203 West Broadway, agents for the popular Fairview tract, are making a specialty of building lots for Christmas presents.

"Why should not the men of this city and surrounding territory give their wives a present which will double in value within a short time? Within a year we expect to see these lots double and possibly triple in value. Fairview has been one of the most popular tracts ever placed before the Glendale lot-buying public. Everyone who has bought in the various units of that tract have made money.

"The building of homes in Fairview has gone along with such rapidity that the increase in the value of the lots has been little short of wonderful.

"Temporary homes are permitted in the Fairview tract. There are hundreds of people in Southern California who are striving to get a home of their own. They simply cannot do so, if they are compelled to save the price of the home and the lot in advance. Many of them secure their homes through the saving they effect by purchasing their lots and erecting temporary homes thereon.

"When the lot and the small home are paid for the larger home can be erected, if the home owner is so inclined. We feel that we are starting hundreds of people on the road to independence."

The eleventh unit of Fairview is just now being placed on the market. The prices for the lots are from $800 up. These lots average about 50x156 feet. The scenery from all of these lots is ideal—a cool breeze every day in the year—good soil—pleasant neighbors—in fact, everything that would add to the pleasure of living.

In the Fairview tract 600 lots have been sold during the past year. Many homes have been constructed, and dozens of others are either in course of construction or very convenient and safe method of control.

When retiring for the night or leaving your house you can look at the master switch and tell by the signal lights whether or not any of the furnaces are burning.

This system for the convenience of operation and ability of being able to heat the rooms desired quickly has proven the most popular.

But regardless of what system you use be sure to give your contract to a reliable contractor who employs heating engineers, who can assure you of proper ventilation as well as heat.

HOMES OF QUALITY SPARR HEIGHTS IS SPECIALTY OF BRIGGS

Homes of quality constitutes one thing in which the C. M. Briggs & Company, builders and contractors, 632 West Alexander street, specializes.

"You might as well secure possession of that home right now and stop paying rent," said Mr. Briggs this morning. "And you might as well, also, get a home of quality while you are at it."

The Briggs homes are known in Glendale as good homes. They are structures that will last. Nothing cheap or shoddy about them. Every stick that goes into a Briggs home is a No. 1 and every piece of lumber is placed in position by an expert.

MUSTARD & JONES BUILD REAL HOMES

"Homes that are Homes" is the by-word of the Mustard & Jones company, contractors and builders of 616 West Myrtle street. By that they mean that the homes they construct are really homes, in the truest sense of the word. Before the home is constructed it is carefully planned. From the laying of the foundation to the hanging of the window blinds and tinting, the dwelling is put up as it should be. Nothing is slighted.

This firm does a general contracting business. There is no job too large and none too small. All that this firm asks is a chance to figure on the work. Estimates are cheerfully furnished by the expert estimating department of this company.

The members of this firm are S. C. Mustard and A. L. Jones, both of whom are well known here, having lived here for years.

have been contracted for. The Christmas offer of the Hamlin & Hepburn company is the most liberal presented this Christmas.

The initial payment on these lots is usually $25. "Just to show you that their heart is in the right place," this firm will make you a present of $10, if you will put up the other $15. In other words, you pay in $15 and get a receipt for $25. The monthly payments on these lots are $15. Could anything be easier. Give a lot for Christmas.

TO DEDICATE CENTER UNIT

Community Building Plan to Be Exemplified by First Edifice, Dec. 17

The beautiful Community Center Building dedicated to the city of Glendale and particularly to the residents of Sparr Heights by William S. Sparr, Senator Leslie E. Francis and the Francis-Barnum-Walters Company, will be dedicated next Sunday, December 17, with appropriate ceremonies.

The exercises will begin at two o'clock and the public generally are invited to be present and take part in the celebration and festivities.

The Elks Band of Glendale will furnish the music. Mayor Robinson will lay the cornerstone and, on behalf of the city of Glendale, will deliver the speech of acceptance and the local Civic Club will be on hand to dispense refreshments to those in attendance.

This building, the finest of its kind in the city, is one of the mission design with a ground floor 65x100 feet and a cloister porch extending entirely around the building that will afford shade in the summer time. The main auditorium will seat about 500 and will have a 106x15 stage with dressing rooms, etc., making possible community plays.

In this connection there will also be a splendid, completely equipped kitchen to facilitate the handling of luncheons and community dinners.

On either side of a large reception room in another part of the building will be private club rooms, library room and committee rooms. Every convenience possible will be provided to add to the social life of the community. The design is by A. F. Leitch, one of the supervising board of architects of Sparr Heights, whose long experience in designing hillside homes in New York and vicinity will be of immense practical value in maintaining a high architectural standard in the development plans of Sparr Heights.

This Community Building will be located in the second unit of Sparr Heights which has just been opened and is but one of the many improvements that will contribute to making that section one of the most desirable residential districts in the state.

The first unit has been practically sold out, some $270,000 worth of lots having been disposed of during the last twelve weeks. There are but a few of these lots remaining and the Francis-Barnum-

Walters Company announces that all those lots in the first unit unsold on Sunday, December 17, will be advanced in price from ten to twenty-five per cent.

The dedication of the Community Center Building is of particular significance to the people of Glendale who have invested heavily in this beautiful residential section with a full appreciation of its present value and future possibilities. They recognize that here a community will be created of 40,000 souls and, with a virgin territory of wonder in scenic beauty to work upon, a comprehensive plan of development from the very beginning will produce results that will not only attract people of leisure, culture and wealth, but will make any investment in this property now a safe, sure and profitable one.

ONE WAY TO FOIL AUTO THIEF

To prevent the steering wheel of a sedan from being used and so to secure the car against theft, use a padlock and chain. First open the windshield glass, then the side window nearest the steering wheel and crank the wheels slightly to bring a spoke of the spider as close as possible to the window. Then wrap the chain around the spoke, carrying one end over the wheel and out the windshield, and the other end out the side window, and join the ends together with a padlock.

SIGNING CONTRACT ONE OF MOST IMPORTANT POINTS IN ARRANGING FOR CONSTRUCTION OF DWELLING

In This Article a Few Points Are Enumerated Which, if Followed, May Result in the Saving of Dollars to the Builder

When you get to the point of entering into a contract with a builder, be sure you know what you want. Have a real set of plans, and simple but complete and understandable specifications. These should be prepared by an architect, for then it will be done properly.

Make all changes in plans on paper, for changes are expensive and troublesome to all concerned if made after signing the contract.

There is little doubt that better homes and better feeling would result if the owner would go on a vacation trip when he signs the contract and leave the rest to the builder and architect.

Certainly it would avoid much talk and strain and the final effect would be every bit as pleasing to the party of the first part.

But, you might say, "That is taking a long chance."

Not at all, if you have a dependable architect and contractor and have followed our former articles on planning your home.

The best rule at this stage is, "Do all your talking before signing the contract."

Thereafter, the contract does the talking, together with the plans and specifications which are considered a part of it.

If properly written, these will cover every condition that will arise on the job and settle all disputes.

Use a regular printed form of contract, such as may be had at a stationery store.

Fill this contract form fully and in duplicate, see that both are signed properly by both parties and keep one copy in your possession.

Just remember the saying, "Owners who wouldn't entrust $5 to a stranger often entrust thousands to a contractor who couldn't buy a hat on credit."

Why this is, no one knows, but see you don't get caught by promises, and have your agreement all written and legally signed.

Then you have taken the ordinary business precautions to protect your own interest in a very important deal.

The way some people go into the contract for building their home—a deal involving, sometimes, their life savings—one would think they gave it no more thought than the purchase of a bag of peanuts.

Then when trouble comes, they look for someone else to blame.

Where you see easy money, you will always find crooks ready to gather it in.

If this series of articles and similar efforts to warn and instruct the home-builders proves effective, we will cut off much of the crooked contractors' source of income and possibly starve them into better methods or out into other fields.

The Associated General Contractors is preparing a universal form of contract which has been accepted by the different branches of the construction industry and embodies an arbitration clause, thus relieving the contractor of unfair treatment at the hands of either architect or owner.

The fault with almost all contracts has been that they were so worded that a strict enforcement of the provisions would be almost impossible and this has often been used as a club over the contractor to impose unjust interpretations of plans or specifications.

Among the essential provisions of the contract are the location, description of the work to be done and labor and materials to be provided; the price to be paid to the contractor; the amount and manner of payments; time allowed for completion of the work; changes and extra work with provision for fixing compensation for the same; also insurance against loss by fire or otherwise during construction.

The customary manner of making payments is as follows:

Twenty per cent when the first floor joists are in place and rough lumber on the job, 20 per cent when the roof is on, 20 per cent when the building is completed, and the final payment of 20 per cent after 60 days or when time has elapsed for filling of liens.

Excepting that the time for filling of liens may be shortened, there is little advantage in recording the contract or notice of completion. If you anticipate any trouble, this precaution should be taken.

But of greatest importance is to require of the contractor a receipted bill for all material delivered to your property.

Check up on these and see that

REAL HOME PLACE IS TOWN OF MONTROSE

Montrose is one of the most enjoyable places in Southern California in which to live.

Contented folks live in Montrose. The people up there have just enough of the hurry and flurry of the modern day business, but along with that they have the quiet days, the wonderful nights.

The evenings in Montrose are not like the evenings in other parts of the country. There is stillness up there at twilight that is sure to bring peace to the nervous, careworn soul of the up-to-the-minute business world.

Business men, nowadays, are on the go from the moment they hit the office until they return to their homes in the evening. To have the automobile or the motor truck race continuously by the door or to have the street car go clanging by keeps the nerves of the business man on edge, as they say.

It isn't that way in Montrose. They rest, up there, when the exacting duties of the day are ended. Up there is where "real" rest is found. It is the abode of content.

No one knows this better than the Montrose Realty company. That is why the members of that firm located up there. There were thousands of other places in Southern California where they could have started in business, but the trouble is, those other places are not Montrose.

When you want your eyes tested and glasses fitted you do not go to a blacksmith. When you want a good pair of shoes, you do not go to a dentist. And when you want a piece of real estate there is only one place to go—to the real estate broker—the man who knows values and who can help you to get your money's worth when you make a purchase of a lot, a home or a piece of acreage.

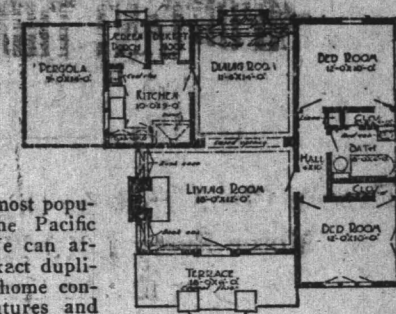

The Glendale Montrose Realty company is more than glad to "show goods."

And remember that the organized contractors and material dealers are responsible business men who desire most of all to rid the community of the sharper who prey upon the small home builders, and brings abuse and suspicion upon all members of the industry.

This home is one of the most popular ever created by the Pacific Board of Architects. We can arrange to show you an exact duplicate of this plan. The home contains many built-in features and has hardwood floors throughout.

We have hundreds of other bargains in low-priced homes which will interest you. You can build your home at a saving of approximately 20% without sacrificing quality, by using the Pacific System. More than 18,500 Pacific Homes have been erected and many of these homes can be seen in this locality.

DRAINING CRANKCASE IS ONE OF IMPORTANT THINGS IN CARE OF AUTO; NEGLECT IS VERY COSTLY

Experts Claim That the Oil Should Be Drained From Motor Every 1,000 Miles—Do Your Part or Engine Can't Respond

Few motorists realize the importance of draining their crankcase every few hundred miles. Most car owners feel that to do is wasting oil—that the lubricating qualities of the oil have not been used up and, therefore, it is throwing money away by draining it out.

Lubrication, it is generally acknowledged, is extremely vital to the life of the motor. One of the prime essentials to reduction in engine maintenance is correct lubrication. The collection of water in the crankcase makes frequent changing of the oil in the crankcase highly important.

Water does not collect in the crankcase because of leaks in the water jacket or through any occult means; it is simply a product of combustion which, especially in cold weather, works down past the piston rings in the form of steam and condenses in the case. In some cars water actually drips from the muffler tail-piece, and in nearly all cars steam is visible in the exhaust on cold days—but this is only a small part of the water produced in the engine itself.

Samples taken in a series of tests showed as much as three pints of water in a seven-quart crankcase. Moreover, the oil portion was so thinned by mixture with gasoline that the lubricating qualities of the liquid could not be relied upon. Badly worn parts result from the continued use of such a liquid. To avoid the expense of refitting cylinder bores, refitting pistons, rings, and bearings, the crankcase should be changed at no greater intervals than every 1,000 miles, and preferably once in 500 miles.

Of equal importance in the lubrication of an engine is the selection of the oil, and in this connection a somewhat startling fact may be stressed—the same grade of oil should be used regardless of the age and condition of the engine. With reference to this statement the following quotation from the booklet of a prominent oil manufacturer is of value:

"Examination by engineering experts of new cars of different makes has conclusively proven that the engines, when turned out by the manufacturer, are run only to a limited degree; consequently when the car is received by the purchaser, the metallic surfaces are still somewhat rough.

"Because of this it is necessary for the purchaser of the car to operate his engine at moderate speeds and loads for at least 100 miles before the rubbing surfaces wear to produce running fits. During this period, however, it is not necessary to use a lighter oil than is correct for the car when run in.

"As the parts wear in, there is a slight but nevertheless marked increase in the clearances to the running fits required. Once these polished bearing surfaces and running clearances are produced as a result of engine use, very little wear will occur for many thousands of miles thereafter, if proper lubrication is provided. It must, therefore, be true that if wear takes place to any appreciable extent, such wear is directly due to poor lubricating value of the oil used, or, in rare instances, to poor design of materials.

"When wear has progressed to such an extent that the piston rings possess perceptible up and down movement, the pounding action of the rings on the sides of their grooves tends to increase the enlargement at a very rapid rate. This is the point at which trouble from oil pumping usually manifests itself.

As pointed out in a previous article of this maintenance series, the selections of oil should be given careful attention. Many owners suppose that they know more than the builders of the car, and many garage and repair men will offer free advice about engine oils. Advice of this kind usually has behind it, however, the thought of a sale of some particular brand of oil which the garage man sells. In order to have an engine last as long as is possible for such machinery to last, the following points should be carefully observed:

1. Get the best engine oil, based on the advice of the car manufacturer.

2. Always use that oil, regardless of the age of the engine, but alternating between summer and winter grades if the manufacturer so recommends.

3. Drain the crankcase every 500 miles, and drop the oil pan and clean it.

Convert Old Tube Into Tool Container

A tube that has outlived its usefulness as an air container can be reincarnated as a tool case in which to carry all small tool equipment such as wrenches, screwdrivers, pliers, files, etc. From an old tube a piece is cut of sufficient length to serve the purpose, and after being split lengthwise, is slit along the center to make loops for holding the tools. The sides of the rubber case will curl up over the tools and the whole can be rolled into a neat bundle, which can be held securely by wide rubber bands cut from sections of the tube.

MONEY FOR BRAND SANTA CLAUS RIDES HIGH ON PNEUMATIC THIS NEW HIGHWAY YEAR, MAKING SPEED FOR 1922, BECAUSE HE SOUGHT CARRIES A BIG LOAD FOR EVERYBODY

A bill creating "The Mother Lode Highway" was passed by the last legislature, but it carried no appropriation. Since the bill has been signed the State Highway Commission has made a complete survey of the route and will soon have an estimate of the cost.

The route begins at Auburn, Placer county, and ends at Sonora, Tuolumne county, passing through Eldorado, Amador and Calaveras along the mother lode or early-day pioneer gold trail. On this trail there has been produced since gold was discovered at Coloma, Eldorado county, $765,000,000. Since 1880 this same district has produced $22,000,000, and is still keeping up a steady production of the precious metal.

The Mother Lode highway will pass through the most populous part of the counties it traverses; also through the Ghost mining camp of pioneer days, where only here and there a lonely chimney or the ruins of a stone house are left to remind the traveler of the restless crowd of eager gold seekers who thronged the busy streets.

Along its route lie Coloma and Weber Creek, Jackass Hill and Murderer's Gulch, Columbia and Gopher Flat, Wheel City and Carson Hill, Chili Gulch and Posterity Bar, whose placer fields and hydraulic hills and tunneled canyons yielded up the dust and suggests to finance the Civil War, and to lay the financial foundation of the great state of California.

Not alone have these hills and canyons added to the monetary riches of the world, but they have furnished inspiration for a wealth of song and story.

Here Bret Harte found his immortal Tiptoe town, and his heathen Chinese, Bayard Taylor wrote of its beauty and its romance, Mark Twain from his cabin at Jackass Hill conceived the immortal story of the Jumping Frog.

Although the mining camps of pioneer days have passed into history, men are still delving for gold in the mother lode. The shaft and hoist have replaced the adobe box, and hydraulic pipe, modern methods of extracting ore and the last word in machinery and mining now operate throughout the deepest gold mines of the world.

Three large hydro-electric plants add to the interest of a trip along the Mother Lode highway, from which five different highways lead over the Sierras or to the Big Trees, Murphy's Cave or to Yosemite valley.

Mother Lode Highway Association has been formed to give publicity to the advantage of the new road. W. J. Loring, at the head of the movement, has done splendid work and at the last meeting in Sonora assurances of hearty cooperation came from all parts of the state.

The association purposes to bring the financing of the Mother Lode highway before the coming legislature, asking for an appropriation or bond issue.

The completion of the road will be a fitting monument to the memory of the pioneer—a revelation and a joy to the motoring public.

USE WIRE FOR SANDY STRETCH

Anyone who combines a passion for chickens with a love of motoring may readily equip himself to tour through deep sand. The only essentials are a car and a roll of chicken wire. The wire is carried in the car, but like a magic carpet is unrolled when needed and used to transport the vehicle over difficult stretches of road. According to members of an automobiles sales agency in San Francisco, this motoring hint has proved helpful in shifting sand that could not otherwise have been negotiated.

A large passenger car was driven into deep sand until it would not move forward another inch. A roll of chicken wire of one-inch mesh and a width greater than the tread of the car was then unrolled and one end of it placed under the rear wheels. The car was easily backed out. Other tests demonstrated that to drive forward it is necessary to spread the wire in front of the car so that the rear wheels will have traction the moment they touch the sand.

AIR PRESSURE MUST BE RIGHT

It is always a good thing to keep a tire properly inflated, for, if it has too much air in it it may blow out, and if it has too little it is bound to wear out sooner than it should.

It is better to take pains putting a new tube into a casing than to do it hurriedly, because if the job isn't done correctly it may have to be done over again in short order and a new tube bought in the bargain.

The motorist who classifies as a careful driver because he not only avoids risks in traffic, but also avoids obstacles in the roadway as well, will not spend near as much money for tires in the long run as the less careful driver.

A spare tire kept under cover has many more miles in it than one constantly exposed to sun, weather and splashes of oil. Skidding does a lot to a tire besides making it smell like burnt rubber.

Traffic Officers Ordered to Look the Other Way
When They See His White Whiskers Floating Out the Side of the Car

Santa Claus is traveling on pneumatic tires this year and the belated personage who is reputed to be the liberal eye toward the motor car and its great variety of accessories as means of pleasing a big percentage of America's motoring millions.

And with the meteoric pace with which motoring is growing in the United States the "what-shall-I-give" problem has been reduced to a veritable cinch. That which at least can be gained from the lively interest that is being manifested in Christmas displays of automotive equipment as well as the complete car.

Just what to give the thousands of car owners in and around Glendale no longer presents a problem or worry, it is simply a matter of selecting some article for the car or the motorist's personal apparel and inventive Americans have seen to it that there is a decidedly wide variety of articles that tend toward comfort, utility and convenience in motoring.

That the proverbial chariot of Santa Claus is going to resemble an automobile accessory exhibition easily can be gained from a survey of activities in the Western Auto Supply company's automotive department store of this city. Every manner of equipment, from little novelties for the enclosed cars to complete camp outfits are included in the gift purchases of hundreds of motor interested persons who are daily thronging this establishment. There is no such thing as a favorite article for there is such an array of equipment dear to the hearts of motorists that it is extremely easy to decide upon a present that is practical.

It is interesting to study the selections of the great army of purchasers, for in spite of the completeness of equipment of some of the later models of cars it is evident that still there are numerous fittings that are lacking to give the maximum of enjoyment to motoring.

Among the most popular selections are such acceptable gifts as motometers, clocks, cigar lighters, rear view mirrors, windshield wipers, tonneau windshields, flower vases, driving gloves, spotlights, mechanical horns, robes, jumpers, thermos bottles, bumpers, theft and stop signals and all manner of camping equipment. Yes, indeed, from the looks of things, it is going to be a real "automotive gift" Christmas.

Novel Way to Test Spark Plugs

WOMEN ARE MORE CAREFUL THAN MEN—CHENU

"Women are more careful drivers than are men," Director C. J. Chenu, of the state motor vehicle division, stated. He draws his final conclusion from a recent trip to Los Angeles and coast points, in which he met many drivers of both sexes. He said:

"Woman, with her motherly instinct which prompts her to guide with exceeding care a baby buggy across a crowded street, by instinct drives a car with the same care and caution, with her whole thought for the safety of her passengers. Hence women are more careful drivers than men."

Chenu's conclusions are in no way shared by his chief inspector, Steve Neal. Neal takes just the opposite view, declaring he has found women not only careless, but entirely presumptuous and really little short of leaders in the roadhog class. He said:

"Women assume the same thing at the wheel of a car that they do in a crowded street car, on the street, in the home, or wherever they are. They seem to think because a man is expected to be chivalrous, he should get off the road and give them all of inspectors as roadhogs, and believe me, when I see a woman at the wheel on a dangerous place, I watch my steps. You might as well get off the road, and give it to them—they'll take it anyway. The best thing about all this is, there are few women chauffeurs, so our difficulties are minimized somewhat."

To which Chenu replies that it is perfectly natural that there are no more women chauffeurs, for women have much more noble work to do making homes than driving cars about the cities and country.

Chenu says women do not speed, and that complaints about them reaching his office are considerably less than against men, in proportion to their respective numbers.

Many motorists completely wear out the front tires on their cars before they find that the wheels do not run parallel. In the ordinary car front wheels are toed in 3-16 to 3-8 of an inch to take care of their spread under power. In the opinion of tire men failure to properly align the wheels is responsible for the premature scrapping of tens of thousands of tires. Wheels of new cars require less toeing in than the wheels of cars already limbered up.

MOTOR HABITS IN ENGLAND—U.S.A. DIFFER

That the English motor-car owner usually drives with his top down, epitomized by Roland E. Dangerfield, publisher in London, England, of a number of automotive publications, the difference in attitude between the Englishman and the American toward his motor car.

Mr. Dangerfield is a director of Temple Press, Ltd., London, England, publishers and owners of The Motor, The Motor Ship, Motor Boat, Light Car and Cyclecar, Motor Cycling, and Commercial Motor. He recently visited the plant of the Cadillac Motor Car company, during a tour of inspection which he is making through some of the leading automobile factories.

He emphasized the great pride of ownership and personal interest of the English motorist in his automobile, and his insistent demand for special bodies and accessories that express his own personality.

"As soon as an Englishman decides to buy a car," said Mr. Dangerfield, "he begins to put his own personality into it. He probably wants a special body to begin with—and he has his own ideas about color and trimming. Then he adds fixings of various kinds—some of them home-made—but all of them intended to realize his own individual ideal of an automobile."

"While your average American seems to take the use of his car as a part of the day's routine, in England motoring is an institution in itself."

"If the owner has a chauffeur, one of his duties is to wash the car every day and give it careful mechanical attention. If he has no driver, the wash is one of his own cardinal automotive virtues."

This information was furnished by the Court Motor company, 235 South Brand, agents for the Cadillac in Glendale.

SOME TIPS ON HANDLING TUBE

When the time is too long between the completion of a vulcanizing job on an inner tube and the use of the tube the tube is apt to be too long for the tire. The greater the stretch of time the longer the stretch of the tube unless it is properly cared for after vulcanizing.

Some people and many vulcanizers, after repairing a tube, hang it up partly inflated and leave it anywhere from a day to a month in that position. Here are a few hints which are offered for the proper care of the inner tube that has been through the renovating process of vulcanizing:

After tube is tested in water hang it up only long enough to dry. Then take it down, remove valve core and force out all the air. Don't tie it up with a string, but use a rubber band. Then wrap the tube in an old newspaper and place it in a tube box, seeing that it fits snugly.

JAY-WALKING CAUSES MISHAPS

If pedestrians would assume some responsibility for their own welfare there would be fewer fatal accidents on Southern California highways, according to various opinions submitted by motorists to officials of the Automobile club of Southern California.

Many motorists write into the Automobile club to inquire if the human race is losing the power of locomotion on its two legs. It is not asked that pedestrians acquire the speed of movie actors in crossing the streets, but a little ordinary intelligence is suggested as an antidote for accidents. The point that is made by the majority of motorists complaining to the club about thoughtless pedestrians is that some responsibility devolves upon those who walk as well as those who drive.

If only a pedestrian who finds it necessary to cross a road or quickly and alertly in the proper direction, with eyes open for oncoming vehicles, a great deal of danger would be avoided.

An attitude on the part of motorists which suggests a daredevil to run them down is not the proper spirit making the streets and roads for all who use them. There is as much responsibility resting on the shoulders of those who walk across the street as for those who find it necessary to point out the interested motorists who are making this suggestion through the Automobile club.

Some motorists even go so far as to inquire if the human race is generating to a slow crawling pace of much help if they would during the last few years in general speeding-up that the majority of motorists have come to the conclusion that pedestrians contribute much help if they would pace with the time in mental as well as physical. What do you think about this? Pedestrian?

LATEST MAXWELL CAR IS BIG SURPRISE

Unless you have seen the new Maxwell Sport model you are not acquainted with one of the biggest surprises of the year in the automobile industry and which was shown for the first time on the Pacific Coast this week. Such unusual value is represented in this car that the wonder seems to be how the Maxwell company are able to produce it at the price.

The standard body color is maroon with black fenders and disc wheels. It is equipped with khaki top and curtains, hand buffed Spanish leather upholstery, high grade double bar spring bumpers, front and rear, nickel-plated lamps and radiator, water meter insured for one year against theft, nickel side lights, windshield cleaner, extra 31x4 Cord tire, tube and cover mounted on the left side of the car, forward, highly finished corrugated steering wheel, foot rest, plate glass in rear top curtain, trunk rack nickel plated, trunk, and tonneau protection strips. All for the price of $1170.00, delivered in Glendale.

This new Maxwell Sport model was shown for the first time in Glendale on Monday, at the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street, and the hundreds

Use Tire Tape to Tighten Hose

Slight leaks in hose connections are vital in radiator upper and lower and pump hose junctions, and they are especially worth remedying if the system is filled with costly anti-freeze mixture. When the hose clamp screw will not turn up further, remove it and place several layers of tire tape between the hose and the clamp. So much for cure. For prevention make sure that the radiator is kept fastened tightly in place, because a loose radiator will not only loosen the hose connections but may also cause breaks in the lower part of the radiator itself. Wherefore, make sure that the two nuts holding the radiator to the frame are kept tightened down, and take up with a wrench any play noticeable in the rod leading from the top of the radiator to the dash.

who have looked at it have expressed surprise that a car like the new Maxwell could be built as well as it is and sell for $1170.00, delivered here, and including all equipment.

"Many people do not realize the great number of changes that have been made in the Maxwell car during the year 1922 and expect to see a car similar in line and construction to the old Maxwell cars built two or three years ago, but the public, generally, are beginning to realize the wonderful quality that is now represented in the new Maxwell car of all models," said Mr. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado Street, Maxwell dealers.

DURANT PUTS STOP TO HIGH-GEAR STUNTS

R. C. Durant, president of the Durant Motor Company of California, has put the ban on high gear tests. According to young Durant, high gear runs are more dangerous to the public in general than speed runs, for the reason that every man or woman who reads of some high gear feat tries to make the same grade in high gear at the first opportunity, and as a result, there are many accidents which would not occur otherwise.

Many Durant dealers have tried to persuade Durant that his efforts to discourage high gear runs are wrong, because both the Durant "Four" and "Six" have been creating sensations throughout the Pacific Coast territory on account of several recent high gear feats, but young Durant insists that second and low gears should be used because that is what they are put in cars for. And he further claims that high gear feats to prove the efficiency of an automobile are passe, because there is not a car made today that will not climb the average grade in high.

AUTO CAMPING PARKS

Chamber of commerce representatives from all over Washington who visited Pullman were so interested in the reclamation of several acres of river bed along the South Palouse for auto tourist park purposes that they had Prof. A. M. Doerner of the State College of Washington tell them of plans he and others have worked out for such parks to accommodate the motor traveling public. He said in part:

"First, there is the selection of a site for the tourist park. Usually there is so limited a choice of suitable places that one must become acquainted with the factors entering into the equipment and use of the park and then choose the site which seems most easily adapted to the use to which it is to be put.

"Where a choice of location is possible, one close but not in town is best, since the cost of the land is less and more ground can be obtained. This gives more privacy to individual camps and less danger of intrusion from outsiders. It is too far from town, supervision, care and policing are difficult, the personal relationship between the town and tourist is decreased, and business is more likely to suffer.

"It is easier to obtain land with native timber, which is highly desirable, on the outskirts of town than close in. Shade is essential, and trees take a long time to grow. Where there are no trees, planting must be done, and ground suitable for the growing of trees should be used, not waste or poor land as is too often the case.

"Where drainage is good and mosquitoes can be controlled, a camp site near running water, but a lake is greatly to be desired. It should always be on the highway, if possible, but if it is not, conspicuous signs should be posted to make it easy for the tourist to know that there is a park and where to find it.

"The larger communities usually have the tourist park separate, not combined with any of the public parks. Smaller towns find this procedure difficult and costly, though it should be if possible. "The equipment of the auto park has received much attention from cities large and small throughout the country, and is therefore well standardized. It varies, of course, with the size and wealth of the community, the amount of tourist traffic, and of business they bring to the city.

Small towns not on the highway usually provide a place to stop, with water, fire place, and fuel. The majority of the parks, however, have modern conveniences. Where possible electricity or gas for cooking is provided; garbage disposal is arranged for; good toilets are provided, and where finances permit are located in a shelterhouse of some description. Lights, preferably electric arcs, should be installed to make the entire grounds usable at night, and at some stated hour most of them should be turned out.

"Other things occasionally found are shower baths, laundry facilities, and in the larger parks police supervision. Although not commonly found, some have a public pay telephone, delivery service from local stores, an information office (which can be located at some garage or store), and sometimes a service station for gas and oil.

"Some parks have a booklet, the advertising in it paying for the printing. This contains road maps, information regarding civic attractions, and other information of importance to the tourist.

"One thing seldom found that should be a feature of every tourist park is play ground apparatus. It need not necessarily be expensive, even home-made apparatus being sufficient. There should especially be swings, a sand pile, teeters, and perhaps merry-go-rounds and a giant slide. Information as to the usual equipment and customs of auto parks is collected and dispersed by the Northwest Tourist Camp Conference headquarters in Seattle. Plans and specifications for constructing fireplaces and other articles on establishing a tourist park can also be obtained from the U. S. Forestry department, with offices in the large cities.

"The landscaping of the auto park is as important as the equipment, if not more so, and yet is almost universally neglected. The landscape should be not only useful, but beautiful. Just as sounds or colors, discordant when thrown together without plan, are beautiful in proper combination in music or pictures, so trees and shrubs properly arranged make a picture with all the elements of any other fine art.

"Undesirable views should be screened, good views framed and called to the attention, and other shrubbery and trees planted in the interior of the park to give it seclusion and furnish privacy to different camp sites in the park. This is done by having a heavy, irregular border planting of trees and undergrowth, with promontories running out toward the center of the meadow dividing it into a number of more or less separate spaces. Shade is desirable, but can be overdone, as sunlight and circulation of air are important, too.

"The importance of planning ahead cannot be overemphasized. Without a plan on paper no systematic improvement can be worked out. The expense, too, is lessened by spreading it over a number of years."

A CHALMERS FOR CHRISTMAS!

Mr. and Mrs. George Lingo of North Jackson street, believe that it pays to do your Christmas shopping early, especially if you want a new Chalmers for Christmas. As a result Mr. and Mrs. Lingo are today driving a new Chalmers Coach, the first Chalmers car of this model to be delivered in Glendale, and one of the first to reach the Pacific Coast.

This is the fourth Chalmers car that Mr. Lingo has owned and driven, and he will vouch that each one is better than its predecessor. The Chalmers Coach is considerably more luxurious and roomy than the majority of cars designated as "coaches." It is a companionable five-passenger closed car with all the class and comfort of the larger sedan models.

"Say it with a Chalmers" is the Christmas slogan of Anders & Henthel, Chalmers dealers, at 246 South Brand boulevard.

MANY QUAKES IN 1923 SAYS SCIENTIST

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The year 1923 will witness an unusual number of earthquakes throughout the world, according to the prediction of Abbe Moreux, director of the Bourges observatory. The Chilean quakes were only the forerunner of many more, he believes. According to the computations of

OLDSMOBILE C U T COMES AS HUGE SURPRISE

The recent price reduction on the Oldsmobile was a big surprise to the automobile trade. Many have made the remark: "How in the world can they do it?" The answer is this," says Mr. Hunter of the Oldsmobile agency. "The tremendous buying power of the General Motors allows the Oldsmobile factory to buy their materials for much less than if they were an independent company; in fact, nearly all the materials that are used in the Oldsmobile are purchased from some plant owned or controlled by General Motors. Again the Oldsmobile factory two years ago increased their capacity by nearly three times and have just recently got in larger production which cuts down the production costs. Again they weeded out incompetents, which makes a big difference in costs. The factory is now working smoothly and without the annoying hitches which cost money. Taking all of the above and many other things and putting them together produces the Oldsmobile at such a low price."

Moreux, the quakes will be most severe in the Mediterranean regions, Turkestan, Mexico, Central America, the Antilles and Japan. In case the earthquakes are very severe, the effects may be felt in both north and South America.

With a Long Life Past And a Longer Lived Future

"Hundreds of Gould Batteries, equipped with Dreadnaught Plates, were still 'on the job' with service records averaging 4 years, 1 month."

The new Gould Dreadnaught Battery is a super-service battery—Dreadnaught Plates plus the new Dreadnaught Armored Separators.

THERE is but one test by which to judge any battery—its service record of the past, plus its service possibilities of the future.

The Gould of Yesterday—In the recent Gould Endurance Contest hundreds of batteries, with their famous Dreadnaught Plates, showed service records averaging 4 years, 1 month.

The Gould of Today—The new Gould Dread-naught Battery is now available to every car owner. It has the same record-breaking Dread-naught Plates, protected with the new acid-resisting Dreadnaught Armored Separators.

This combination insures super-battery service.
It insures added life, added endurance, added economy to the battery that has already demonstrated longest life by the test of owners' records.

ARRANGEMENT OF ROOMS IN HOME IS VITAL

The arrangement of the building is one of the most vital points in connection with the structure, according to a leading authority.

This essential, both in commercial and private building projects, is second only to the primary consideration of cost, or the investment feature.

It is true that any project which does not measure up to the requirements of the other five essentials—appearance, decoration, stability, speed in construction and service to owner—cannot be an entirely satisfactory operation.

But, as human need is the reason for erecting buildings, it is of primary importance that the needs of the occupants be met by the arrangement of furniture and equipment of various kinds.

These articles must be placed so as to afford the greatest comfort and convenience.

Therefore, the correct course to follow in any building operation is first to have the inside planned before the outside is designed.

To plan the inside properly, a preliminary study of the needs of its prospective occupants (whether tenants or owner) must be made.

This study must be made to suit exactly the needs of its occupants.
When they take possession, they should find windows and lighting fixtures placed where they will be most useful; sufficient space, convenient arrangement of rooms and passages, and adequate provision for air and sanitation.

These are all items of importance which are often inadequately provided.

All of these vitally affect the value and earning power of the completed structure.

The outside of the building can always be adapted to the inside arrangement without any loss in attractiveness.

But to reverse this procedure by designing the outside first, is to court an inevitable sacrifice of utility inside.

One of the largest real estate operators in New York City is authority for the statement that many New York buildings yield their owners only 2 per cent, 3 per cent or 4 per cent, and that this condition is due, in the majority of cases, to inefficient planning.

WE WOMEN

By BETTY BRAINERD

NO HATS—NO EDUCATION Civilization in its highest form is sometimes the more oppressive than barbarism. The compensation of a satisfied soul is unquestionably a necessary adjunct to happiness, but the human soul derives some of its serenity from a fair share of material comforts—a stylish hat or dress every now and then, for example.

Wherefore, I would say a few words for the wives of college professors and school teachers.

College professors are engaged in one of the most important of all fields of endeavor, and like the employees of most banks they are notoriously underpaid. They distribute food for thought in wholesale quantities year after year to countless thousands, but in the general scheme of things they are asked to subsist on half-rations.

They receive much less for their work—to them it is a pleasure—than some truck drivers do for theirs. And their wives suffer accordingly.

An investigation recently made at the University of California disclosed that one professor's wife had had only one hat in seven years, that "one couple with a baby cooks, eats, and sleeps in the same room," and that "one woman with a child of 12 is still wearing her trousseau."

The investigation, made public in the form of a protest by the wives of the professors, also discloses that some of the families have used substitutes for butter, others do not have eggs for months at a time, and that some of the wives of the professors have not been to a theatre for five years.

The women particularly complain because their husbands' salaries make it impracticable to have babies.

"No hat, no education."

A TOAST TO MERRIMENT

Good humor! Let's have more of it,
Let's spice the wine of life with wit,
The little day we tarry here
Let flow the sunshine of good cheer.
Find not in sober sense such zest
We have no time for quip or jest,
Nor o'er our tasks so roundly bent
We find no time for merriment.

Oh you, whose sober self all gowned
With gloom, and who so oft has frowned
A smile could scarce find resting place
Upon your worn and wrinkled face,
Let loose a laugh to tell the world
Your heart's dried substance has not curled Like a wormed nut, to rattle in,
Your moldy shell of bone and skin.

And you, whose soul is so engrossed
With duns and dollars, drink the toast,
And let your honest laughter teach
Your stunted sense the sweeter speech
Of merriment. From your tired head
Remove that gallows hood of dread,
Lest you should miss a wage or fee,
And wear this cap and bells with me.

A thousand years your mummied skin
Will have no seed of laughter in,
And in your sober grave find rest
All undisturbed of quip or jest.
Then be not sordid, sullen, dull,
An ever-walking funeral,
But laugh, for you and laughter when You part may never meet again.

FANNING WITH FARRELL

OLD B. B. STARS HOLD THEIR OWN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Young players are coming along fast as batters in the major leagues and veteran pitching arms are beginning to crack, but the old fixtures around the bases and in the outfield continue to set the fielding pace.

Take the three leading outfielders of the American League, for instance—Tris Speaker, Bobby Veach and Ty Cobb.
The leading first basemen—Joe Judge and Stuffy McInnis.
The leading second basemen—Eddie Collins.
The leading shortstops—Everett Scott.
The leading catchers—Ray Schalk and Hank Severeld.
The best fielding pitchers—Walter Johnson and Joe Bush.

Age held its own just the same in the National League during the past season. The averages of 1922 show as the fielding leaders the following:

First base—Jake Daubert.
Second base—Hornsbey.
Shortstop—Hollocher.
Third base—Heinie Groh.
Outfield—Wheat, Powell and Meusel.
Pitcher—Alec the Great.

Figuring misplays among the number of chances is not the most accurate way to judge the ability of a player. Unless an error has a vital result on the outcome of the game it should not be figured in the averages.

Some, classed as average players, will not exert themselves to go after a real hard chance and others go after everything, taking a chance on an error.

Veteran players, because they are slower of limb and less ambitious, do not take the chances that youngsters do and the averages show it. Fielding averages are misleading at the best. George Sisler was eighth on the list of first basemen and he made seventeen errors during the season. Joe Judge was first on the list. He went through the season with only six errors.

As a fielding first baseman, regardless of batting, which one would you pick for your team?

SHEET CONCRETE IS SOMETHING NEW

Recently a New Jersey manufacturer developed a novelty in building material in the form of sheets of cement and sand reinforced with galvanized wire netting.

In making these slabs, according to Allen P. Child in Popular Mechanics, three cubic feet of cement and one cubic foot of sand are mixed with seven cubic feet of small pellets of a material similar to paraffin wax.

This is mixed thoroughly with water and then poured into a steel form in which the wire netting is placed.

After sixteen hours the slabs are placed in steel cars, which are pushed into a big tank and there exposed to steam.

The steam heats the slabs rapidly; most of the waxlike material melts and runs to the bottom.

In order to get rid of the remaining steam, the slabs are superheated and the remaining chemical evaporates and escapes in the course of twenty-four hours.

After being cooled for a few hours, the slabs are placed in a steam curing-room, where they are kept wet and hot. Two or three days give them the necessary strength, and they are ready for building purposes.

Mrs. Jennie Templeton of Indiana, who is spending the winter in Southern California, spent a few days this week with Mrs. B. J.
East on West California avenue.
